

Engineer Job Profile

Job Description	Engineers build, design, and maintain machines and make sure that production and development processes work as smoothly as possible.
Salary	$85,000 per year on average, most engineers make between $74,000 and $97,000 per year.
Job Security	Decent since there is a lack of qualified engineers right now.
Job Satisfaction	Good if you are a tech guy and love to find your own solutions to complex problems.
Work-Life Balance	Good since you will not have to work lots of overtime and also have free weekends and evenings.
Physically / Mentally Demanding?	Working as an engineer can be mentally demanding.
Future Outlook	Decent future job prospects since good engineers will always be needed.
Requirements	You need at least a bachelor's degree in engineering to work as an engineer.

Top 10 Being an Engineer Pros & Cons – Summary List

Being an Engineer Pros

Being an Engineer Cons

Engineers can make decent money	Working as an engineer can be demanding
You can work indoors as an engineer	You need to get a college degree
You will not have to work many hours	Student loan debt can be an issue
Free weekends are common for engineers	Many engineers gain weight in the long run
Good work-life balance in general	You may have to work out after work
Engineers don't have much stress at work	Engineering degrees are demanding
You can work on important projects	You often have to work with a computer
You can work in many different fields	Lack of physical exercise at work
Good engineers will always be needed	Most engineers don't get rich
Easy to switch fields for engineers	Hard to start your own business in this field